Professional Mouthguards

TEETH HAZARDS

Give your teeth a sporting chance, wear a mouthguard

All people who play sport where injury to their natural teeth is possible, should wear a mouthguard.

Professionally fitted mouthguards greatly reduce the chances of tooth damage or painful laceration of lips and mouth. Mouthguards also assist to absorb the impact which may result in a damaged jaw and concussion.

Professionally fitted mouthguards do not make breathing difficult.

Mouthguards should always be made and fitted by an appropriate dental professional

Sporting mouthguards- your child's first line of defence

Children's teeth and jaws are particularly vulnerable to sporting injury. Mouthguards will help the child's confidence and will give the parent peace of mind.
